Under Supervision

On November 26, 2007, Mr. Camacho began serving a five month sentence of home confinement with electronic monitoring. The home confinement program rules were explained to him and he signed an agreement acknowledging his understanding of them. These rules include that the participant not leave his residence with approval from the U.S. Probation Officer and that he not deviate from his approved schedule.

On Sunday, March 9, 2008, at 10:30 am, this officer received an alert notification from Behavioral Intervention, the company contracted to provide equipment and services for electronic monitoring, that Mr. Camacho failed to return to his residence after his approved leave for church. This officer immediately called Mr. Camacho's residence and was informed by his son that he had gone to a laundromat. At approximately 11:25 am, Mr. Camacho returned to his residence and called this officer. He was instructed to report to the U.S. Probation Office the following day for a non-compliance meeting.

On Monday, March 10, 2008, Mr. Camacho reported to the office and apologized for being out of range past his approved leave time. This officer reminded him that not only was he out of range past his approved leave time, but that he was also at an unapproved location. According to Mr. Camacho's pre-approved schedule, he was authorized to be at church, not at a laundromat. Mr. Camacho acknowledged the violation and signed a Record of Non-Compliance. This is Mr. Camacho's second violation. The previous week, on March 2, 2008, he left his residence without permission to go to a nearby store to purchase medicine to relieve pain caused by gout. At that time, he was given a verbal warning.

Mr. Camacho has otherwise been compliant to the conditions of his release. He paid his $200 special assessment fee on December 4, 2007, he completed his three mandatory drug tests on December 20, 2007, and he submitted to the collection of a DNA sample on February 20, 2008. He has made a total of $800 in payments to his $3,000 fine balance. On December 12, 2007, he was referred to Marianas Psychiatric Services for drug testing and counseling and has consistently tested negative for illicit substances and attended all counseling sessions. He also reports monthly as required.

This officer recommends that no action be taken at this time. Further violations will be reported immediately.
